

LIFTING EDUCATOR VOICE FOR EQUITY

ABOUT US

With generous support from Duke University's Office of Faculty Advancement, Duke's Program in Education, TeachHouse, Trinity College of Arts and Sciences, and the Samuel DuBois Cook Center on Social Equity are pleased to support educator-led action research projects that address racial and social equity issues within Durham Public Schools.

PROJECT GOALS

VOICE

Empower teachers through engagement in education policy development and implementation.

LEADERSHIP

Promote a collaborative leadership framework in schools that is inclusive of all community stakeholders.

EQUITY

Support educator-led action research projects that address racial and social equity issues within schools.

EDUCATOR BENEFITS

Resource Hub

Technical assistance and support from Duke Faculty and Staff. Up to $2,000 per project to launch and/or scale equity-focused projects. Up to $1,000 honorarium for educators leading each project.

Education Hub

Six professional development sessions that focus on collaborative leadership, teachers as policy actors, and action research. $50 stipend per session for educators.